Fun Facts!

Behind Star Tours is a restaurant for cast members only called The Inn Between.

After you exit the "stretching room" when entering the Haunted mansion, you walk down a hall that is actually a tunnel under the railroad tracks.

Inside the Matterhorn, about half way up, is a basketball court!

Walt himself placed a silver dollar under each mast of the Columbia for luck.

There are stairs leading up inside the castle that used to be open to the public. They were too narrow to meet safety regulations, so the attraction remains closed.

Look at the window above the Fire Dept. on Main Street and you'll see a glimpse of Walt's personal apartment! A light is left on there every night in memory of Walt.

The Train Station at New Orleans Square clicks out the first line of Walt's opening day speech in Morse Code. "To all who come to this happy place, 'welcome'."
